O C K I N G

To

PRESENTS

Miss Elizabeth Pfohl . .

There is always one person in college life whom students take as a model for their lives. At Mary Baldwin this person is one who through her grace of living has gained the respect and admiration not only of the student body but of every person who comes in contact with the school. Wherever she is, in years to come, she will remain in our hearts as the embodiment of the thing we hold closest to us—the Mary Baldwin Spirit.

To Miss Elizabeth Pfohl, our Dean, we, the editors, dedicate our 1936 BLUESTOCKING.

PRE

THE LIFE AND

FACE . .

Many nations, through the ages, have contributed to the making of a finished year-book such as we have in our American Colleges today. We have tried, in a small way, to indicate these contributions in the 1936 BLUESTOCKING by showing the development of the six essentials for any annual: painting, paper and ink making, printing, engraving, and photography.

PAINTING

The earliest form of painting, Palaeolithic art, was found in Spain in caves thousands of years old. This type of painting was done in three colors and pictured mammoths, reindeer, and other animals interesting to hunters. From this beginning painting advanced through the ages in various countries, resulting in the schools of painting and in the improved methods of today.

of English

The practical and cultural value of the English courses—training in effective composition and contact with great writers and works of literature—is of paramount importance in the liberal arts college. At Mary Baldwin College the English Department has more majors than any other department.

The Bible Department endeavors to give the student the Biblical knowledge that any cultured woman should possess and to help the student appreciate the eternal spiritual values that are to be found in life.

Recognizing that the modern college woman often needs technical training, Mary Baldwin College not only offers a two-year secretarial course but also encourages other students to take one or more of these courses.

of Languages

The Modern Language Department, which offers courses in the French, German, and Spanish languages and literatures, has three objectives. It aims to develop a reading ability sufficient for a student to continue to make use of the language in graduate study, to give to those interested in the language itself an ability to make practical use of it, and to provide a knowledge of the literature and its place in world literature for those students whose main interest lies in that field.

of Science

In our present day complex civilization, acquaintance with the natural sciences is an essential part of a liberal education. Furthermore, science is no longer exclusively man's domain. More than ever, women are gaining eminence in the field—and today many women hold responsible positions not only in our schools and colleges, but also in the laboratories, libraries, and offices of hospitals, food companies, and industrial concerns.

It is the happy privilege of the members of the Science Staff of Mary Baldwin College to endeavor to contribute to the orientation of the student in this scientific world.

Social Sciences

The social sciences have emerged, most of them comparatively recently, in answer to the need for practical citizenship-training. The subjects included as social sciences have been listed variously by educators. Those most frequently called social sciences are history, political science, economics, sociology and psychology.

The cultural value of the social sciences is obvious. They also supplement and give background to other subjects. Their chief aim, however, is to give information and inspiration for a high type of service to humanity—in the individual community, state, nation and world of nations.

In this country today, the social studies are becoming more and more important in college curricula. International relations clubs, practical social service work in connection with classes and institutes of public affairs and foreign relations have stimulated further interest in social questions. The social sciences are subjects which should interest every intelligent, thoughtful American.

Fine Arts

The Fine Arts Department offers instructions in music, drama and art through classroom work, lectures and technical practice. Much emphasis is placed upon the appreciation and understanding of the arts as well as their interdependence on each other and on other college courses. Student performance is provided for in recital, art exhibition and dramatic production with the main purpose that of development of the powers and possibilities of the individual student.

PAPER

In Egypt as early as 2400 B. C. papyrus was used as a material for writing statutes and manuscripts. Parchment was also an ancient substitute for paper and took its name from Pergamus, a city in Asia, famous for its use of this material.

Not until 105 A. D. was paper, as we know it today, invented; this was made from tree bark, hemp, and rags.

The Senior Song

While mountains guard thee in the Shenandoah,
And loyal daughters daily look to thee,
The spool of happy days is fast unwinding,
Its colors rare, for memory's tapestry.
The tall, white columns gleaming in the sun-light,
The moon-light casting over all its spell,
The scarlet autumn, and the winter snow-flakes,
Oh, Mary Baldwin, can we say "Farewell"?

May laughter ring, and dreams be ever golden,
Along the terrace there above the street,
May friendship live like truth's white flame a-glowing
Like truth's white flame that never meets defeat.
Where'er we be, we'll cherish with fond happiness,
That golden tapestry of memory's spell,
And ever we our faith and love will pledge thee,
So, Mary Baldwin, hail and farewell.

Like the first robin in the spring, the first Junior in the fall attracts attention and even envy. From the very first, this year is full of new sensations and ideas; in fact, the psychology of the Junior is quite distinctive, and it becomes more pronounced as the year advances. As she enters the back gallery in the fall, the Junior is suddenly aware of the subtle difference between this and the last two years and there is nothing quite so delicious as the first walk of the year, down the gallery to the Dean's office. She feels sure that all the Freshmen present realize that she is a Superior Person—they can tell just by the way she pulls off her gloves and smiles at Nellie, just by the self-sufficient click-click of her heels on the newly polished floor.

The Junior takes genuine delight in being motherly and comforting to the Freshmen, and, although she is flattered when they ask her advice, she feels that it is quite the proper procedure. Though outwardly she preserves this mature and altogether magnificent calm, wild thoughts are seething in her brain: No more gym classes, no more required subjects. Aha! What have we here! Criminology, contemporary drama, abnormal psychology. The cadets seem younger this year. Nice tea the Freshmen gave us—Remember "The Horses Run Around"? A million years ago!

So, you can see that she is really a very complex individual. In fact, we are inclined to think that a psychoanalysis of the average Junior would leave Freud reeling; and we are sure that any psychiatrist would abandon all hope if he could see how things whiz through this amazing brain during the last semester:

Freshman-Junior banquet . . . Junior-Senior banquet . . . rhinestone bracelets . . . must have a new evening dress . . . speeches . . . hearts and flowers. Elections . . . house presidents and editors . . . all from our class! BLUESTOCKING coming out . . . good old Junior brain and brawn. The last few days . . . formal dinners . . . concerts . . . chiffon dresses . . . candlelight . . . flowers . . . caps and gowns. The Seniors sing their song for the last time . . . now it's ours! The last senior receives her diploma and becomes an alumna . . . change the tassel to the right side!

Strangely enough, nervous prostration rarely results. The best thing about the year is that the transition from Sophomore to Senior, while really a terrible thing to contemplate, is so gradually accomplished that it is not often a great strain on a delicate constitution.

This has been college life at its highest point—the year of anticipation of looking forward to, and preparing for, the best, which is often better than having the best.

1. And it came to pass in the land of the Baldwinites that on a certain day did each Sophomore find about her a multitude as the tribe of Freshmen, curious creatures with braided hair, clad in cloth of gingham. 2. And these did favor the Sophies (as this superior tribe was wont to be called) with strange and appetizing sweets and gums, concealed in cloth bags swung over their backs. Also did they approach the Sophomores with great abeisance to them in many ways. 3. Now at the last rays of the sun, the Sophomores did cause a great assembly to be held, at which the underlings were compelled to submit themselves to ridicule; that being done, they doffed their singular clothing and were called initiated.

4. Now peaceful days followed, disturbed only by plagues of Psychology and similar pestilences. Then did the season of hockey arrive. 5. Whereupon the Sophomores did take up the stick and ball and go forth anxiously into the field of combat with other tribes. And lo! over all was the victory theirs. 6. And the glory of the tribe increased from moon to moon, and the Sophomores did provide leaders for many organizations and did take part in many activities. 7. Now when the festive season of Christmas did come, the Sophomores did sigh with relief; for quizzes and term papers had been descending on them with a rapidity horrible to mention. 8. And after many feasts and festivities, the Sophomores did return to Mary Baldwin, and did gird on their thinking swords to equip themselves against the dragons Exams with whom they must combat.

9. Now after these battles were successfully fought, a treaty of peace was declared by the Faculty, a tribe most important. 10. And the weather waxed warm and mellow, until finally it came to pass that the day of the great feast for the Seniorites arrived. 11. And the head of the tribe gathered the Sophomores about her, and bade them to labor in order to give the Seniorites much enjoyment. 12. And to amuse them and soothe them, the Sophies vied in dance and song, accompanied by lutes and harp boys. And the two tribes were garbed in Togas styled in the period as of the Gay Nineties and it was good to be alive.

13. But there came a day when there was much sorrow throughout the land, for the end of the year was at hand. And there was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth. 14. And the beauty of the day of the Pageant and the day of Class was rivalled by the day of Commencement, which was the last day in the realm of Mary Baldwin for the Seniorites.

15. But even while the Sophomores were sorrowing, they bethought of the two more years in which to wax and wane. And content filled their hearts.

The blue scrap book lay on the front room table. As Sue and Sally came in the door, the book caught Sue's eyes immediately.

"Oh, Sal, what a lovely book! May I look at it?"

"Surely, it's my Scrap Book of My Freshman Year at Mary Baldwin."

"How grand, Sally. Wasn't it fun to keep?"

"I should say so; but take a look inside and see for yourself all the wonderful things we Freshmen had in store for us last year."

Sue settled comfortably in the big arm chair and opened the book. On the first page was a big yellow and white sticker; underneath was printed:

MY FRESHMAN YEAR AT MARY BALDWIN COLLEGE
SEPTEMBER 1935-JUNE 1936

On the next page were neatly typed envelopes with post-marks ranging from May to September. Sue just couldn't hold back her curiosity and had to read every letter from the first one telling of the acceptance of the registration to the last one giving the name of Sally's roommate and instructions as to the date of arrival.

Across the page from the letters was a card with Sally's name written on it and a mimeographed sheets of instructions giving the room and hour of the English and French placement tests. Below was a paper marked "Handbook Examination."

"What in the world was that, Sally?"

"Oh, we were given a course on the Handbook and we learned all the rules and regulations of the college. The Student Council gave us an exam just to be sure we knew everything."

Turning a leaf, Sue saw three paper napkins: one white one and two yellow ones. Underneath the first was written "Napkin from Y. W. reception. We were presented formally by our Big Sisters, to Dr. Jarman and Miss Pfohl." The second napkin was from the Rosemary Tea Room. Underneath one could read "My Big Sister took me to the Rosemary for dinner." The last caption read, "Freshman-Junior Tea given in the Upper Back Gallery."

The following two pages were devoted to Freshman-Sophomore Day, better known as "Initiation Day." First was the sheet of instructions; Sally had underlined what she thought were the worst demands: (1) wearing black gloves and stockings, (2) eating with a knife, and (3) curtesying to the upper classmen. A very careful written account of the procedure in the chapel that night covered the second page.

Programs came next. The Senior Investiture and the Boston Sinfonetta, the music recitals, the English dinner at Christmas time, the Senior play, and a list of the presents Sally had given her poor child at Christmas, for each Freshman had taken care of a poor mountain child.

Following were write-ups and articles of the election of the Freshman representative, Adelaide McCormick, to the Student Council; the various recitals; the grand Freshman-Junior Banquet given at the hotel on March 17, and of course, carrying out the St. Patrick's Day theme. Finally was the Commencement Pageant and final exercises.

Sally finished the book by pasting in a picture of the officers of the class. Underneath she had written:

President.....CATHERINE GIERHART
Vice-President.....KATHERINE BRETCH
Secretary.....MARY BOISSEAU
Treasurer.....MARY JOYCE PAPY

"Oh, Sal, this book is grand! Now you'll always have this to look back on.

"Yes," said Sally, "and I know I'll say that my Freshman year was the very best. I honestly don't see how anything could be better."

The Activities

INK

The invention of ink is assigned, in China, to Tein-Tchen, who lived in the third century B. C. This crude ink was prepared from charcoal or soot mixed with gum, glue, or varnish. Not until the early part of the nineteenth century were blue-black inks introduced, and the application of aniline colors to ink manufacture in England dates from 1861.

A Message From The President

The Student Government Association was organized seven years ago to unite the student body of Mary Baldwin. The principles of honor and coöperation on which it was founded have continued to be the basis of all of its actions. In order to make the governing of the Association more simplified and more effective the Student Council is chosen each year to carry on the business, both judicial and legislative. It is essential in any group of three hundred people, who live in close and daily contact, that there should be some form of government. Student government seems to be one of the highest types of government because of its great emphasis on personal honor. Both in academic and social regulations the individual's own respect for his honor is the guiding principle. This fosters an attitude of trust instead of suspicion, and makes for a much greater spirit of coöperation. It is natural that in any community life in order to gain greater liberties, smaller personal rights must be sacrificed. Here, at Mary Baldwin, the Student Government Association has tried to work toward the goal of the best community life for each individual.

A Message From The President

The Y. W. C. A. strives to help each girl find a healthy normal happiness in her college life by maintaining a balance of all phases of her character. We have tried this year to present a program which would give every girl the opportunity to develop each of these sides—physical, mental, social, and spiritual—and finally to bring all of these together in a harmony which results in a healthy vital outlook on life. We believe the fullest life is the one lived according to one's highest ideals, where each girl brings joy to others through the richness of her own life and the very fact that she enjoys living! We have tried as members of the Y. W. C. A. to discover qualities we, as followers of Christ, should possess, and to let His Spirit be expressed in our lives.

The aim of the Y. W. this year and our wish for all of its future members is to find the happiness life offers in living the normal, healthy, well-rounded, and satisfying life of a wide awake Christian.

Betty Bird ..... President
Elise Winslow ..... Secretary
Harriette Carmichael ..... Treasurer
Miss Ruth Spoor ..... Sponsor

The Art Club, a division of the Three Arts Club, fulfilled throughout the year its purpose of broadening the field of art appreciation.

The club was organized to stimulate interest in art and further the members' artistic knowledge. Monthly meetings were held in which costume design and various other topics of the artistic nature were studied. The club was fortunate to have several out of town speakers attend the meetings and lecture to them. Students from the various art classes together with the Art Club went to Charlottesville to hear a few talks on points in this field.

Katherine Dyer ..... Secretary
Martha Lancaster ..... Treasurer
Miss Mary Fishburne and Miss Christine Gunlaugson ..... Sponsors

The Music Club, which was founded at Mary Baldwin in 1928, is one of the school's most active and outstanding organizations. Membership in the club is open to all students interested in music and with this in mind a greater appreciation and love of good music is developed. The meetings were held every month and programs were presented which exemplified the musical spirit.

In addition to the regular meetings the club sponsored a series of Sunday afternoon "musicals" interpreted by Mr. Carl Broman, head of the Music Department. A chapel program and the Three Arts Club were also on the engagement list. On February 18, the Music Club brought to the college the famous Emory Glee Club of Atlanta, Georgia, in a varied and unusual program.

The Dramatic Club

OFFICERS

Harriet Jayne ..... President
Hettie Kennedy ..... Secretary and Treasurer
Miss Mary Latimer ..... Sponsor

The Dramatic Club has a two-fold aim in furnishing an opportunity for its members to study the art of acting and presentation and to give entertainment for all.

This year the large membership necessitated dividing the club into the non-acting and acting group, the latter for which try-outs were necessary.

Miss Latimer gave a series of lectures on the "Art of Make-up" and several girls have been experimenting in this field.

Through the efforts of the club, the new stage floor was laid last summer, and a cradle of six spot lights installed.

In February the club gave The Trysting Place for the Three Arts Club. In the spring play, Ladies of the Jury, characters who were spectators in the audience were used, thus drawing the audience and actors closer.

The Debating Council

OFFICERS

Nancy Wallace ..... Chairman
Marjorie Abbey ..... Vice-Chairman
Jane Dewey ..... Secretary
Mrs. Martha Grafton ..... Coach

The Debating Council is composed of the members of the intercollegiate debating teams and a few others who are interested in debating. The activities of the various teams this year have been of wide-spread interest. Among the most important of these was the debate between the Cambridge team of England and Mary Baldwin. The affirmative side of the question, Resolved: "That the increase in advertising is a menace to modern society" was upheld by Nancy Wallace and Jane Shaler of Mary Baldwin, while the Cambridge team supported the negative.

Other interesting questions that were debated were, Resolved: "That the emergence of woman from the home is to be deplored," the affirmative of which was upheld by Hampden-Sydney College and the negative by Janie Stevens and Barbara Wood of Mary Baldwin; and Resolved: "That Congress should be empowered to over-ride by a two-thirds vote any decisions of the Supreme Court that declares actions of Congress unconstitutional." Jane Frances Smith and Alice Borden Moore supported the negative and West Hampton College the affirmative. This same question was the subject of the debate at Williamsburg, when Marjorie Abbey and Nancy Wallace upheld the negative and William and Mary the affirmative.

The Psychology Club

OFFICERS

Sarah Dudley Whitmore.....President
Elizabeth Bolton.....Secretary and Treasurer
Dr. Kenneth Smoke.....Sponsor

The Psychology Club, organized 1926, has filled a definite place in the life of the college. Its membership is made up of advanced students in psychology and education, and those in general psychology who have attained a high scholastic standing.

The aim of the club, in general, is to interest the students in the many aspects of mental life. The subjects of the meetings may vary greatly but they all lead toward the practical application of psychology to the problems of everyday life.

Two of the guest speakers of the club for this year were Mr. William H. Hinton, Assistant Professor of Psychology, Washington and Lee University and Dr. DeJarnette, Superintendent of Western State Hospital. At one of the meetings several films on child psychology were presented. On March 4, 1936, Dr. Alfred Adler, noted analytical psychologist, gave a lecture in the college chapel.

The Glee Club

OFFICERS

Mr. Carl Broman ..... Director
Freda Hewes ..... Librarian

During the year 1935-36, the Mary Baldwin Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Carl Broman, not only developed a broad scope of understanding and appreciation of music among the members but also aroused the interest of others in the varied fields of singing art.

The club participated in many chapel, club, and church activities. A concert of classic composers and music was presented at Thanksgiving, a program of carols was given at the Yuletide season. In April the main concert of the year took place in which a most unusual group of the ever-interesting and pleasant Madrigal singing was presented and which also exemplified the technique and ability of the Glee Club.

The Language Club

OFFICERS

Imogen Bird ..... President
Raquel Fajardo ..... Vice-President
Ora Ehmling ..... Secretary
Helen Wade ..... Treasurer

Until the present year there were only two language organizations in the college, French and Spanish. These existed as separate clubs, holding independent meetings. The Language Club now embodies three units—French, Spanish, and German, each unit having its own chairman. The club meets as a whole every two months, with one branch furnishing a program or bringing a speaker before the group. During the alternating months each divison has a separate meeting for its own members. Membership, regulated by the number of years of the language studied or the standing attained, is established by each individual unit. The president of the club and chairman of the French group is Imogen Bird; Vice-President, Raquel Fajardo is also chairman of the Spanish division while the secretary, Ora Ehmling, is chairman of the German unit. Helen Wade, a member of the French branch, is the club treasurer.

The Little Sisters' Club

The Little Sisters' Club is one of the traditional clubs on the Mary Baldwin campus. In comparison with other organizations it is rather small and somewhat inactive, but its members are bound together by a desire to carry on the standards and ideals which have distinguished Mary Baldwin through the years.

One meeting of the club which especially stands out in our memory is that on October 4, the birthday of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin. A lovely tea was given by the alumnæ at which the Little Sisters' and Granddaughters' Clubs were present.

Later, a spring meeting was held. The Little Sisters also participated in the Commencement exercises.

The Granddaughters' Club

The Granddaughters' Club of Mary Baldwin is composed of a group of students whose mother or grandmother attended school here. Each year on October 4, it is their privilege to be guests of the alumnæ at a tea served at the Alumnæ Club House in honor of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin's birthday.

The Granddaughters take pride in the knowledge that their mothers and grandmothers shared in the molding of the background of the school which has become their Alma Mater. From generation to generation traditions and customs, which are a definite part of the life of Mary Baldwin, have been formed. It is the ideal of the Granddaughters to carry on these traditions which they, more than all others, should know. They feel that they have a more intimate share in the building of a greater college, realizing that it is their trust to pass their knowledge of the standards and ideals of the school on to the present generation of students.

The Day Student Club

OFFICERS

Lucilla White ..... President
Ethel Ray Coffey ..... Vice-President
Alice Gilkeson ..... Secretary
Rebecca Cockrell ..... Treasurer

The Day Student Club was first organized in 1929 and since that time has continued to be one of the active clubs on the campus. Its purpose is to promote the feeling of active participation in college affairs among the day students. The president of the club is always its representative on the Student Council. The Sponsor, Miss Fannie Strauss, was once a day student at Mary Baldwin.

In September the Day Students assembled for their first meeting of the new session. Many freshmen were welcomed into the club.

In October they enjoyed a picnic in Gypsy Hill Park.

At a Valentine party in February, the Day Students were hostesses to the members of the college faculty.

In May a tea was given for the girls of the graduating classes of Lee High School and Beverley Manor, at which time the guests were shown the campus and buildings.

The Dance Group

Miss Mary Collins Powell..... Director

The Honorary Dance Group is a rather recent organization at Mary Baldwin. It grew out of the need of providing an opportunity for advanced work in the dance as an art-form and has been functioning successfully for a year. Membership is determined by skill and interest in the dance.

This group meets regularly during the winter and spring and has as its particular project the Commencement Pageant. It serves as a committee to help plan and arrange the dances of the pageant.

The International Relations Club

OFFICERS

Mildred Huffman ..... President
Raquel Fajardo ..... Vice-President
Lucy Lewis ..... Secretary
Jane Dawkins ..... Treasurer
Dr. Mary Swan Carroll ..... Sponsor

The International Relations Club was founded in 1935 for the purpose of furthering interest in world affairs and preparing the members to be sane, intelligent, and broad-minded citizens. Membership in the club is restricted to those students chosen by the faculty, who are interested in history and in international good will.

During the year, with the aid of its sponsor, Dr. Mary Swan Carroll, the club has been able to bring many famous speakers and world authorities to the college.

Delegates were sent by the club to the Southern International Relations Convention, held at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., and Miss Mildred Huffman, president, attended the national convention held in the spring.

Mrs. Helen Eyster ..... Sponsor

The Garden Club is a new organization at Mary Baldwin this year. Our purpose in this club is to study flower arrangements, the cultivation of various flowers and plants and, by so doing, beautify the campus. This year we have had the pleasure of visiting private flower gardens and of being advised by members of the Staunton Garden Club of methods of flower arrangements. We have also arranged table decorations for our own enjoyment and benefit.

The Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award

The New York Southern Society, in order to perpetuate the memory of Algernon Sydney Sullivan (through whose efforts the Society was founded), in such a form that shall be most expressive of his character, established an award to be made annually, in certain Southern colleges, to one member of the graduating class of each institution selected. Each school may present this award to one other person, not a member of the student body, in whom accomplishment and disinterested service are outstanding, and who shall have some interest in, association with, or relation to said institution. The recipients of the awards shall be chosen by the faculty of the school; the award is given in recognition of fine character and special effort in behalf of fellow students.

At the 1935 Commencement, Mary Baldwin College presented the awards to:

Beverley Hoy, '35, of Petersburg, Virginia; Mrs. Margarett Kable Russell, '02, of Staunton, Virginia, a former president of the Mary Baldwin Alumnæ Association, and a member of the College Board of Trustees.

The credit for the invention of printing is usually given to Johann Gutenberg of Germany. The earliest examples of movable type were set in a form known through its use in the 36-line Bible printed in Germany not later than 1460. From this country the profitable and useful art of printing spread rapidly through all the countries of Europe.

The Student Handbook is revised and published each year. It is under the supervision of the President of the Student Body. She, with the assistance of the Student Council and the dean, makes the changes in the book which are necessary from time to time. The book states the rules and regulations for students at the College.

The Bluestocking, the year book of Mary Baldwin College, comes out every spring. It is edited by the Junior Class and one representative each from the Sophomore and Freshman Classes. Each year the Editor, Assistant Editor, Business Manager, and Assistant Business Manager are elected by the student body; and the supporting staff is chosen by the Editor and Business Manager, advised by Miss Fannie Strauss.

Miss Strauss has, for a number of years, been advisor and sponsor of the Bluestocking staff and to her we owe much for the able guidance and patient understanding so necessary for a successful publication.

To the class of '36, we hope this annual will symbolize the spirit of their college, and will recall to them, through the years, the pleasant associations and activities which mean so much to them now.

We hope that between these pages, we have, in some measure, captured for all of you an indefinable spark which will live and forever blaze into vivid memory when you read this year's Bluestocking.

Before returning to college the staff of Campus Comments was told that the newspaper had received First Honor Rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. At the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association, which met in Harrisonburg in October, the weekly publication received second place in Class A.

This year Jane Shaler, managing editor, and Jean Diescher, news editor, were delegates to the Associated Press Convention which was held in Chicago. When these students returned they gave the staff suggestions which resulted in bringing about sveral changes in the paper.

The number of cuts were increased, new types of headlines were ordered, and a special edition was issued before spring vacation. A new column, Surveying the World, written by Jane Frances Smith, has been added to the editorial page along with a cartoon which appears in every issue.

Campus Comments endeavors to voice student opinion, to broaden the viewpoint of the student body by stimulating interest in world affairs, to promote extra curricular activity by securing better equipment for all its branches, to encourage scholastic achievement, and to uphold and enrich the standards of Mary Baldwin College.

The Miscellany, Mary Baldwin's literary publication, purposes to encourage creative writing among the students. It is made up of student contributions and the work done in various English classes.

The Editor and Business Manager are elected by vote of the student body, and they, with the help of the faculty advisors, select the other staff members.

This year the staff sponsored a literary week led by Miss Anna Bird Stewart, poetess, who gave lectures on the subjects of writing and publishing to interested students. A series of private conferences were held by Miss Stewart through which the students were enabled to receive helpful criticism of their literary endeavors.

For the first time the magazine was published according to classes: The Freshman issue appearing in November, the Sophomore issue in December, and the Junior and Senior issues in the Spring. By this arrangement the members of each class wrote for their own particular issue, and contributions were received from a greater number of the students.

ENGRAVING

Historically, engraving first appeared in the form of wood cuts. In ancient times Babylonia was noted for carved wood blocks made to stamp bricks. During the Middle Ages such wood blocks were used for monograms and more intricate designs. So until the perfection of photo engraving the wood cut remained the major form of illustration for books, magazines and newspapers in Europe and America.

A Message From The President

At Mary Baldwin, the Athletic Association sponsors participation in almost every sport popular among women. Every student of the college is a member of the Association. Each year, the students elect a representative council of girls who lead the activities of the various sports on the campus. This council, with the guidance of the director of physical education, plans and carries out the athletic program.

The Association stands for participation in sports on the basis of physical ability or skill, independent of scholastic standing. It encourages students to adopt a program that will carry over after their college days. It promotes a spirit of play. The Athletic Association endeavors to contribute to social adjustment and development. It offers activities which contribute to good health.

The program of the Association offers to every girl an opportunity for a good time and endeavors to help everyone to enjoy a healthful, sensible, and sane way of living.

Hockey

In spite of chilly weather and wintry winds, the past hockey season went off exceedingly well, and proved to be of great interest to many students.

The Senior-Junior game was a very exciting one and the final score was 1-1.

The Sophomores proved to have the best team work by winning each of their three games. They defeated the Freshman 4-1, the Juniors 3-0, and the Seniors 4-2.

The Senior-Freshman game proved to be another tie, 0-0, and this left the Sophomores with the highest final average.

A group of interested players represented the college at the Virginia Field Hockey convention at William and Mary, Williamsburg.

Basketball

During exams and for six weeks afterwards the basketball court was the main attraction as far as class activity in sports was concerned. In the practices it was difficult to determine which class would prove to be the strongest team. The Freshman squad was large and lively, having many veteran players from high school, while the Seniors put forth their same old "stand-bys." The Sophomores, with several new players put up a desperate struggle to hold their ground, but the Juniors were again proclaimed "champs."

The Faculty-Senior game was the high-light of the year, with a review before the game by the Faculty and one during the half by the Seniors.

JANET HOLLEY
Baseball Leader

Baseball, the good old American sport, is played at Mary Baldwin by the faculty as well as the students with great spirit. Although Spring is the regular season for baseball, the annual picnic at Crafton Park usually finds the faculty and students hard at play with bat and ball. Usually the faculty stands supreme.

The inter-class games are played during the last month of the college year. A varsity, chosen from the class squads, represents the eleven best players of baseball. This team usually challenges the mighty faculty team to a final game, which proves to be an exhibition of the sportsmanship of our leaders in the academic field and of the spirit of the game which exists between them and the students.

MARTHA LANCASTER
Track Leader

Track

Track is one of the six major sports at Mary Baldwin. Early in the spring, girls begin training indoors and as soon as weather permits more strenuous training is undertaken at the Athletic Field. The track season is climaxed by Field Day. Students of the various gym classes are required to participate in one or more of the Field Day events, when personal scoring counts not only toward individual glory but toward a class cup. Competition is offered in broad-jumping, high-jumping, hurdling, javelin and discus-throwing and racing.

LUCY LEWIS
Swimming Leader

Swimming

Swimming has been made a major sport this year because of the interest and enthusiasm shown by the Freshman class.

The season began with Life Saving classes, held twice a week in October and November. It continued with practice for the swimming meet in December and January, and ended with the meet held on February 4.

The Juniors, with a good all round team, and led by Betty Curry, won the meet. The Sophomore team, though not as consistent as the Juniors, made a very good showing and came in second.

Betty Curry, a Junior, came first with the greatest number of individual points; Lucy Lewis, a Sophomore, was second; and Emily Ann Sparks, a Freshman, won third place.

Athletic Resumé

The Athletic Association of Mary Baldwin College was organized in 1919 when Mary Baldwin was still a seminary. The purpose of the association was to stimulate interest in sports, to promote school spirit and to give every student the opportunity to take an active part in some form of athletics. At that time feeling the desirability of friendly competition the physical director divided the school into two groups, naming them for the colors, Yellow and White. Teams were chosen from these two groups which played a series of matches in hockey, basketball, baseball, and golf.

From this beginning, the Athletic Association has developed into the group that exists today. Every student is a member of the association and has the right to the privileges offered by it. The organization of the association provides for an executive Council elected by the student body. The Athletic Council consists of the officers of the association, president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, and sport leaders for hockey, basketball, baseball, track, hiking, tennis, swimming, golf, and riding. The Council plans and carries out the athletic program for the year.

Inter-class tournaments are conducted in the major sports, hockey, basketball, baseball, and track, and in tennis and swimming. Individual tournaments are conducted in tennis, golf, archery, swimming and ping-pong. Silver loving cups are awarded to the winning class teams in the major sports and to the individual champions in golf, tennis, archery, and riding. Another cup is awarded to the class having the largest number of points for participation and skill in all sports. The Riding Club is under the direction of the president of the club, who is sport leader of riding on the Council. Every spring the club sponsors a horse show. M. B. C. monograms are presented to individuals who have made 650 points throughout the year under the athletic point system. An honorary varsity team is chosen from the class teams of each major sport. The most important award is the Mary Baldwin Blazer won by the girl chosen through popular vote to be the best sport in college. All awards are made at the Athletic banquet held in late spring. At this time, a program is presented by the retiring officers and the new Athletic Council is installed.

During the year 1935-36, the Athletic Council began its activities by entertaining the student body and the faculty at a supper picnic. The Council conducted Chapel early in the year. At this meeting the platform of the association was set forth. A fall tennis tournament was conducted which was won by Jean Reed, '39. The inter-class hockey championship was won by the class of '38. The Association sent a team as delegates to the convention of the Virginia Field Hockey Association, held at the College of William and Mary.

The Council sponsored a health day program. This started with Chapel exercises, and on the same day a health poster contest was held and a prize awarded for the best. A posture contest was also held: Josephine Huffman, class of '37, received the cup. During exams, a special effort was made to encourage everyone to take exercise every day. A swimming meet was held, at which Betty Curry, class of '37, received the cup. Inter-class basketball and baseball games were played. The annual Field Day took place in the spring.

The Mary Baldwin Athletic Association is a member of the Athletic Federation of College Women and an allied member of the Virginia Field Hockey Association.

The Monogram Club

The Monogram Club consists of the outstanding athletes in the college. These girls have shown themselves worthy of membership by obtaining six hundred and fifty points in the athletic program. Each year, at the Athletic Association Banquet which is held in May, the new members of the club are named, and the Athletic Council presents them with an M. B. C. monogram. To become a member of the club means the realization of honors, which are desired by all ambitious athletes.

The Features

PHOTOGRAPHY

To Thomas Wedgewood of England is due the honor of discovering that pictures could be produced by the action of light on a sensitive surface. In 1824, Daguerre, of France, began experiments which led to the celebrated process which bears his name. Improvements and additions to these earlier discoveries resulted in the first sunlight picture of a human face taken by John Draper of New York University.
